MEN AND MATERIAL FOR REVOLT MEXICO TAKEN CALIFORNIA

PLANS HAD BEEN CAREFULLY LAID AND EXPERIENCED MEN IN CHARGE

By Associated Press.

San Diego, Calif., Aug. 16.—Approximately 150 men, mobilized for a Mexican revolution under command of General Enrique Estrada, former Mexican secretary of war, were lodged in prisons here last night and a large quantity of arms and ammunition seized by American authorities.

Agents of the United States Department of Justice, aided by city, County and other Federal officers, captured what was to have been the [illegible]5—Gus [illegible] of invading insurgent [illegible]ents from the Mexican [illegible]. C. formation gathered by Governm[illegible] agents led them to the appointe[illegible] J. endezvous at Dulzura where [illegible]neral Estrada and his staff were concentrating their forces preparatory to a descent upon towns just below the border.

An armed truck, two 10 ton truck loads of rifles, machine guns and ammunition, other trucks for the transportation of men and supplies and 150 Mexicans made up the material and personnel of the captured expedition, while government agents also captured documentary evidence and complete set of plans for the insurrection.

The most important capture was made yesterday when General Estrada and his staff, including Earle C. Parker, San Diego hardware and arms dealer, were captured and brought into the city from Dulzura where the munitions trucks were captured near La Mesa.

The captured arms included 400 Springfield rifles, two machine guns and 155,000 rounds of ammunition and a miscellaneous assortment of small arms. Later a truck protected with armor plate half an inch thick and weighing nearly six [illegible], was captured near Dulzura [illegible]n the general round up of the rebel forces was made.

The San Diego county jail, unprepared for such an emergency, was able to accommodate only about one-third of the army and the remander were sent to Fort Rosenscrans. The leaders of the expedition were housed in the county jail, while the captured munitions were loaded on the trucks in the court yard of the jail.

Enrique Estrada, who gave himself only the modest title of civil engineer, was known to the Federal agents as General Estrada, one of the leaders of the De La Huerta revolution several years ago, and at one time secretary of war in Mexico and commander of the Vera Cruze district. He carried $456 in cash on his person, and other members of his staff captured at the same time had sums that brought the total to more than $1500. General Estrada's chief of staff was General Aurelio Sepulveda, a famous officer of the Mexican army, who said he had been a resident of Los Angeles for two years. He admitted he was a general in the Mexican army and was booked at the county jail with that title.

While no air planes were found in the expedition's equipment, Faustino Garcia, aged 30, arrested with Estrada, was designated as an aviator. He called himself a mechanic when he gave his history at the jail. Benjamin Roque, salesman; Lucas Amador, laborer; Carlos Alcantar, truck driver; Jose Manzanara, mechanic from Texas, and Miguel Valenzuela, laborer, all of Los Angeles, were the other captured with Estrada and before the main body of troops was rounded up.

Papers found on the captured Mexican indicated that they had been employed and given instructions to gather near Dulzara last night. One man, Ospicio Sanchez, apparently a top sergeant, had a letter from J. T. Degman, Culver City contractor identifying him and introducing him to one S. M. Wilson of Campo. The letter, which was only one of several documents carried by lieutenants or sub-commanders, read as follows:

"The bearer, Ospicio Sanchez, will report to you with 25 Mexican laborers to start construction work at once. I will be there in a few days. (Signed) J. T. Degman."

Degman, however, apparently did not wait the few days he mentioned, for he was captured with the others near Dulzura. He asked of he might get bail and go to a hotel, saying that he had many friends in San Diego who would be glad to put up bail.

He was told, however, that he would have to wait until today when charges would be preferred against him and his bond would be fixed.

That the expedition had been carefully organized and was led by experienced military men was made further evident by the identification of Ascencion Santaana, who had served as a captain in the forces of the late President Venustiano Carranza. Another supposed leader of the expedition who, with Estrada and Sepulveda is supposed to be one of the prime movers in the insurrection, is still at large, according to the department of justice leaders.

VARIOUS CLAIMS BEING MADE FROM OPPOSING PARTIES

ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE COME IN FOR ATTACK BY CONGRESSMAN

By Associated Press.

New York, Aug. 16.—National politics are warming up in the hot weather season.

A demand that the Anti-Saloon League be prosecuted, claims that a satisfactory number of dry candidates won in the primaries, claims that the Republicans will lose Senate control this year, and a declaration by Governor Smith of New York that he is reluctant to wear himself out with another term as Governor were among week-end developments.

Representative George H. Tinkham, Massachusetts, Republican, demanded in a letter to Attorney General Sargent, made public in Washington, that the Anti-Saloon League be prosecuted under the corrupt practices act.

Claiming that "This ecclesiastical-political organization" has "set aside one of the rent constitutional guarantees of American freedom and liberty," the separation of church and state, Mr. Tinkham asks prosecution of the League for failure to report political receipts and expenditures or for falsely reporting there were none, and of League officers for perjury.

On the other hand, "the wets are spending more money, building a stronger organization, and spreading more propaganda than ever before," in the view of Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel of the Anti-Saloon League, in a Washington statement. Mr. Wheeler declared primary returns from 25 states showed there was no reaction against prohibition. On the contrary, he claimed that 75 per cent of Congressmen and 75 of the Senators nominated in States where nomination is tantamount to election were drys.

The Democratic National Committee criticized President Coolidge on the $55,000,000 budget increase for next year, after a $470,886,681 increase this year.

Senator Peter G. Gerry, chairman of the National Democratic Senatorial Campaign Committee, is sure his party will control the next Senate. Depression of some Eastern industries and a continued slump in the agricultural South and West are bringing a reaction against Republican lack of leadership, says a statement issued at Providence, R. I.

The New York governor regards conditions so favorable for his party that he is loath to tax his stength with another term as governor. "Give me a little personal consideration," he said to friends in Buffalo. "There is a scriptural saying about a man gaining the world and losing his own soul. What good would it do me to be nominated for the presidency and have my health shattered so that I would not be able to carry on the duties of the office if elected?" He added that he would run for re-election if the Democratic State Convention decided upon it.

Bishop Adna W. Leonard of the Methodist Episcopal church, president of the New York Anti-Saloon League reiterated in New York his recent statement in connection with Governor Smith that "no governor who kisses the Papal ring can get within gunshot of the White House."

Bishop Charles Fiske of Utica, N. Y., took exception to this attitude in a sermon at Paul Smith's, N. Y., in a church not far from the summer White House. Bishop Fiske characterized Bishop Leonard's statement "as un-Americanism."

BRISK CAMPAIGN TO BE CONDUCTED DURING LAST WEEK

FERGUSON SAYS WILL SPEAK IN OLD HOME TOWN SATURDAY NIGHT

By Associated Press.

Austin, Texas, Aug. 16.—Governor Miriam A. Ferguson and former Governor James E. Ferguson will go home to Temple to open the campaign Saturday for the run-off Democratic primary election August 28. The former Governor made this announcement Monday.

"Yes, I'll open service in the Old Home Town Saturday night at 8 o'clock," he said. "I expect to speak in Galveston, but my intinerary is not yet complete."

Mr. Ferguson said he expected to conduct a brisk campaign during the last week.

Austin, Texas, ug. 16.—Although former Governor James E. Ferguson is yet to announce his speaking itinerary in interest of his wife's canddacy for re-nomination as governor, he will speak in Galveston and Temple this week, it was announced today.

MAN HELD DETROIT WANTED IN AMARILLO REPORTED MONDAY

ROBERT DALTON ALLEGES HE HAS KILLED SEVERAL MEN IN TEXAS

By the Associated Press.

Amarillo, Aug. 16.—Robert Dalton, held in Detroit for Amarillo authorities, is wanted here on a charge of removing mortgaged property from the state. He is accused of taking a costly motor car, purchased from an Amarillo dealer, out of Texas with the mortgage unpaid.

The dealer from whom the car was purchased said today that Dalton had boasted to him that he had killed ten or fifteen men in Texas. He is reported to have told Michigan authorities he had killed several men in Texas years ago, but that he was acquitted in each case.

Officials of the Canadian Oil Corporation at Canadian, Texas, could not be reached today to confirm Dalton's statement to Detroit officers that he is president of the concern.

HOW DO YOU USE YOUR FACTS?

Educationally we seem to be in the midst of an era of testing and examining of some kind. Not only teachers and school authorities but anyone who feels so inclined may set some test or other for anyone who is willing to try his skill at answering.

There are poetry tests and history tests and general information tests; there are tests of all shades and descriptions, and tests of all degrees of difficulty. It would be folly to deny that much good can be gained from such testing. It is interesting to know which boy in school possesses more current history facts; which girl can tell the source of most quotations in poetry, and what young pupil knows the greatest number of capitals of the countries of the world.

This information about the pupils can readily be obtained; you have but to set a test and the thing is done. And in so far as such tests may stimulate hundreds of other boys and girls to further efforts to acquire such information, these tests take on an additional value. The spirit of rivalry and competition which they foster is on the whole a good thing.

But it is well to remember that such mere acquiring of facts is by no means the whole of education. The fact that it is often mistaken for education renders it necessary that we should insist strongly on it that the mere acquiring of facts may have in itself but little to do with education. What gives such information value is the use to which the holder of it may put it when there is occasion to use it. It is what you do with a fact that makes it important and worth while. Otherwise our minds remain lumber-rooms.

It is this practice of using facts which distinguishes the educated man from him who is a mere collector. A half dozen facts properly used may give the individual a new viewpoint on life; it may open vistas never before open to him; it may stimulate thought of a depth and scope which could never be obtained through the haphazard collection of hundreds of facts.

Facts, definite and irrefragible facts, are the foundation of learning; they are only the foundation. The superstructure is thinking. That's what facts should be used for.

LEARN TO SWIM.

Every man, woman and child should know how to swim. Hundreds of people lose their lives each year by drowning and a large per cent of these lives could be saved if the art of swimming had been mastered.

Under the auspices of the Corsicana Y. M. C. A. swimming classes are now being conducted in Corsicana with R. L. Newland as instructor. All who can possibly do so should take advantage of this opportunity and learn to swim. You never know when through some unforseen accident a knowledge of swimming will save your life or when the opportunity may present itself to save another life.

Beside the value of knowing how to swim there is much pleasure to be derived from swimming as well as is this form of exercise most healthful.

Let your children learn to swim.

FEED CROP.

Navarro county farmers have made one of the biggest feed crops this season in the history of the county. In fact, according to all reports, they have made enough feed to last them for two years. Also the melon crop is the finest in many years. Wagon load after wagon load of watermelons are being marketed in Corsicana and the majority of the melons are unusually large and luscious. Much garden truck was also grown in Navarro county this season and now if the cotton crop will produce like it should, and in all probability will, the Navarro county farmer will be "sitting on top of the world" with a barn full of feed for his stock, a larder full of food for his family and plenty of money in his pocket.

Navarro county is one of the most prosperous counties in the state and from present indications this prosperity will be increased many times over by the time 1927 rolls around.

Let's build some hard surfaced highways.

THE PROMENADE.

A contemporary writer bewails the passings of the old custom of "promenading" on pleasant evenings and wishes that it might be restored. There is a reason in his plea.

Not so long ago, the summer twilight in almost every community found groups of people—nice people—strolling quietly along the streets, stopping to chat with other groups and combining social intercourse, mild after-dinner exercise and enjoyment of the best part of the day in a fashion as inexpensive as it was charming and conducive to health and neighborliness. As the champion of the promenade points out, it is a pity that the fashion of tearing about in motor cars with little result but the exhaustion of purse and nervous energy has so completely superceded this calmer method of enjoyment. "Use your legs," he urges. "It is cheaper than riding and more restful of mind and body."

Those in Corsicana who have the courage to adopt this suggestion and leave the car standing in the garage for a few nights while they promenade, unhonked and unhonking, in the peaceful twilight, will find that he is right.

GRASS FIRES.

The fire department has started answering the annual summer grass fire alarms. In most instances little damage is done and the prompt response of the department soon has the grass blaze under control. But there is always the possibility of much damage being caused by the grass fire. The home owner should exercise all precaution to prevent these dangerous grass fires. All dry weeds and grass should be cut and the vacant lots be kept clean. It is a simple matter to start a grass fire. A carelessly tossed cigarette or burning match in a dry bunch of grass and in a very few seconds the fire is under way.

Exercise all caution in preventing grass fires.

A good roads system in Navarro county would bring more real pleasure in living, give easy accessibility to the farmer to his local trading or shipping station with the marketable products of the farm, give easy accessibility to church, school and society, cause low upkeep on your automobile, cause tourist trade for your town and above all would draw neighborhood closer together.

Corsicana's future never looked brighter and the men of vision, who have the knack of recognizing the knock of opportunity at the door are investing their money in this city. Corsicana is growing steadily and the next few years will see even greater changes in the business skyline than have taken place in the past few years.

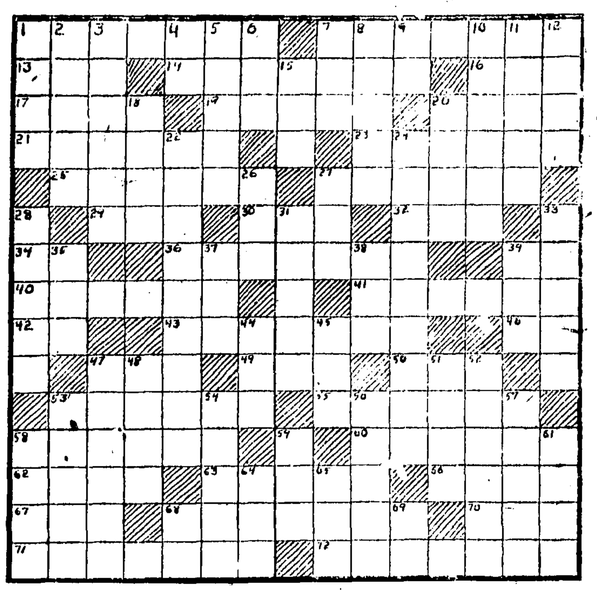

Those interested in the securing of a junior college for Corsicana are still actively working in behalf of the project and are confident that the near future will see a junior college located here. The entire citizenship of Navarro county should give their undivided support to this project.

Houston will soon have a forty story hotel which will contain 1200 guest rooms and at completion will cost seven and one-half million dollars with an additional million and a half for furnishings. Houston is one of the coming cities in the South.

Idle query—What happened to all those crusades against high check-reins on horses?

FATHER SEARCHING FOR SON CORSICANA DISAPPEARED AUG. 3

L. E. Ogilvie, of Houston was in Corsicana Thursday and Friday, continuing his search for his son, L. B. Ogilvie, missing since Tuesday, August 3. The search for the younger Ogilvie so far has proved fruitless, but every effort is being put forth to find a trace of him.

Mr. Ogilvie conferred with the local police force and the sheriff's department, and every assistance is being given him. He was in Mexia all day Wednesday, and was with the police giving what information he had that would lead to a possible clue as to what had become of his son.

L. B. Ogilvie is 25 years old. 6 feet, one inch tall, weighs 225 pounds, has brown eyes, dark curly hair, and of fair complexion. He is a civil engineer and was working for the Pure Oil Company. He formerly worked for The Texas Company, the Humble Company, and the Texas Power & Light Company and had taken up employment with the Pure Oil Company with headquarters at Mexia.

On August 3 he left his home in Wortham about 7 o'clock in the morning. His automobile was found parked in front of the Majestic Hotel about 10 o'clock that night. In the car was found his hat crushed in.

Ogilvie has a wife and one child, and since he disappeared they have been living with the family of the elder Ogilvie in Houston. Mrs. Ogilvie mentioned a man being in Mexia recently whom Ogilvie testified against in a trial which sent him to the penitentiary. She mentioned also that her husband had been recently complaining with pains in his head.

Mrs. Ogilvie gives possible foul play or loss of memory as possible reasons for his mysterious disappearance.

C. R. Best, Mexia filling station operator, told officers of seeing a man Sunday whom he suspected of being Ogilvie. The man inquired of Best concerning and baby, but nothing else did Best get out of him.

The elder Ogilvie was formerly a city detective on the Houston police force.

INDIGESTION

North Carolina Lady Says She Had An Awful Time With Indigestion, Till She Took Black-Draught.

Pilot Mountain, N. C.—"For several years I suffered with a bad case of chronic indigestion," says Mrs. Sam C. Inman, of this place. "I had bad spells with my stomach. At times I had severe pains in my right side. My stomach would get upset and I would have an awful time. It seemed like everything I ate disagreed with me. I was in pretty bad shape.

"My husband had been using Thedford's Black-Draught for some time for indigestion. He had spells of it too, so he suggested that I try Black-Draught. I took some from his box, just to see if it would help me, and I found it was the very thing for my trouble. It did me a great deal of good. My condition was brought on by a chronic case of constipation and, by getting relief from this, I found my general health was much better.

"We keep Black-Draught in the house all the time. Whenever I find I need it, I take several doses and thus avert a bad spell of indigestion. It is a splendid medicine and I am glad to say so."

APPORTIONMENT FOR TEXAS SCHOOLS WAS MADE AUSTIN TODAY

By Associated Press.

Austin, Aug. 14.—The per capita scholastic apportionment for the 1926-27 school season Saturday was fixed at $11.50 by the State Board of Education. This is the lowest since the 1919-20 season apportionment of $8.50.

S. M. N. Marrs, superintendent of Public Instruction and secretary of the board, said the legislature would be asked to make a supplemental appropriation of more than $4,000,000 to raise the apportionment to $15.

The $11.50 apportionment is based on 1,352,500 scholastics.

Governor Miriam A. Ferguson, Comptroller S. H. Terrell and Mrs. Emma Grigsby Meharg, Secretary of State, all the members of the board, were present, as well as James E. Ferguson.

The apportionment for the 1925-26 season was $14. Mr. Marrs said this apportionment was made possible by a large balance from the preceeding season and by savings on text book purchases.

Members of the board took the attitude that the fixing of the apportionment at $11.50 was automatic, as the available school fund income would not permit a higher figure.

Throughout the first primary campaign, Jas. E. Ferguson, speaking for Governor Ferguson, declared the administration in favor of a $15 apportionment.

In her statement Wednesday, announcing she was re-entering the gubernatorial race, Governor Ferguson urged the passage of a legislative bill imposing a three cent tax "on every gallon of gasoline sold in Texas." She said one-third of the gasoline tax money should go to the common schools, and two thirds to maintenance of highways.

NO PINK BOLL WORM IN TEXAS ACCORDING REPORT OF EXPERTS

By the Associated Press.

San Antonio, Aug. 16.—Texas cotton growers need not fear the pink boll worm. San Antonio Chamber of Commerce agricultural officials and A. & M. College entomologists Monday denied reports of the appearance of the cotton pest.

The experts examined specimens said to be infested by the pink boll worm and found the cotton bolls hollow, indicating the pest to be the old boll worm and not the deadly pink boll worm.

TRANSPORTATION FACILITIES UNABLE HANDLE OIL PRODUCED

By Associated Press.

Austin, Texas, Aug. 16.—The Panhandle oil field is producing more oil than the pipe line and railroad faccilities are handling. It was brought out at the hearing Monday before the Texas Railroad Commission on the congestion and conservation problems that have arisen over the situation.

The hearing got under way with a score of representatives of oil companies ,railroad companies and O. C. Goodwin, manager of the Amarillo Chamber of Commerce.

After a two hour session, Clarence E. Gilmore, chairman of the commission, deduced that the daily production of oil in the field is 90,000 barrels, with the pipe line capacity of 74,000 barrels and that the railroad shipments for the past 15 days have averaged 43,000 barrels, although F. L. Mayer, assistant general manager of the Santa Fe Railroad said that his line is now able to handle 55,000 barrels a day. Mr. Myer told of plans of the Santa Fe for additional sidings and filling platforms which he said, will care for all the oil produced.

I. G. Harmond, vice president of the Mardand Oil Company, said that there is not enough pipe line in either the Pampa or Panhandle field to accommodate the production which is expected to rapidly increase due to the many wells being drilled.

EIGHTH WELL WAS COMPLETED NIGGER CREEK AREA SUNDAY

The eighth well was completed in the Nigger Creek field early Sunday morning when the Atlantic Company's test was brought in for about 3,500 barrels crude a day.

Murchison & Fain have a well due in some time Monday. This will be the ninth producer to be completed in the new field. Others are drilling away nearing completion depths.

The Gulf Production Company drilled the Hillburn No. 1 gas well about 40 feet deeper Saturday and struck oil. For the first twenty-four hours the well flowed 550 barrels of clean oil. The Hillburn well is in the area located between the Richland and Currie fields.

A new impetus has been given the Currie-Richland district by the completion of the Gulf well and will call for a number of additional deepenings of Wells with no doubt an increase in oil production.

MEX GOVERNMENT MAKING STRICT WAR ON BANDIT BANDS

By Associated Press.

Mexico City, Aug. 16.—Further emphasis is placed on the Federal government's nation-wide anti-bandit campaign with the announcement that President Calles has instructed the Department of War to disarm all Agrarians in the states of Michoacan, Jalisco and Guanajuato. On Saturday the department of war ordered such disarmament in the state of Vera Cruze.

Previously instructions were given to military commanders everywhere to wipe out bandit groups whose activities recently have been increasing, although on a minor scale.

Theoretically Agrarians are merely farmers desirous of legally obtaining land under the government's policy of dividing big estates. Objections to these alleges they are unjustly deprived of their lands.

The name Agrarians is assumed by groups of bandits.

GOVERNMENT WILL GIVE OIL SHALE THOROUGH TEST

Washington, Aug. 16.—An American-cancan type twenty-ton oil shale retort has been purchased by the Bureau of Mines, it was announced at the Department of Commerce, and will immediately be installed at the experimental oil shale plant of the bureau near Rulison, Solo. The new retort will be erected alongside and operated in parallel with the bureau's pumpherson retort of the Scottish type.

Laboratory experimental work of the Bureau of Mines on oil shale, extending over a period of six years, has indicated two entirely different methods of producing refinable oils from oil shales. Both methods are fundamentally sound, so far as can be determined by laboratory investigation. In the first method the shale is heated slowly and enough scavenging steam or gas passed through the distilling mass to prevent undue decomposition of the oil. This method results in a relatively low yield of crude oil of relatively high heating value. The crude oil so obtained can be sent to the refinery stills without further treatment.

In the second method the shale is heated rapidly, care being taken not to reach temperatures high enough to decompose the oil products as rapidly as they are formed. This method yields a maximum quantity of crude oil or relatively poor quality and a maximum volume of fixed gases of relatively low heating value. The crude oil so produced requires a preliminary cocking distillation before going to the fractionating stills, but either method, properly operated, apparently will produce the same results.

Guess Work Makes Failure

Today, when guesswork is fatal, every farmer, business or professional man ought to have a careful training in bookkeeping and some considerable knowledge of cost acocunting. Tens of thousands fail for want of this knowledge. Lack of it is one of the great fundamental weaknesses of present-day retailing. The success motto is "you must know or go. If you guess, you must confess you are unfit for the job. To earn you must learn more." Our school offers the ideal course for the farmer, business or professional man either in the personal instruction department of our school or in our HOME STUDY DEPARTMENT mail instruction course.

MOODY MEETING IN EVERY COURT HOUSE PLANNED WEDNESDAY

SIMULTANEOUS RALLIES ALL OVER STATE FOR DAN MOODY AUGUST 18

Special to the Sun.

Dallas, Aug. 16.—A Dan Moody meeting in every courthouse in Texas Wednesday, August 18.

This is the slogan and the purpose of a movement started at the Dan Moody rally held in Dallas Saturday. The plan was introduced and put through at a meeting of several hundred Moody leaders gathered during the morning in an informal meeting in the Baker Hotel. Attending the meeting were representatives of 170 counties in Texas. The call for these meetings throughout the state was issued under a resolution unanimously adopted by those assembled.

Delegates from the various sections pledged themselves to become active in arranging for the Wednesday's meetings and word has been sent to those counties not represented at the meeting to fall in line. The principal object of such gatherings is to organize the Moody forces to the end that an intensive campaign may be waged in every section of each county of the state.

Leaders of the Moody forces believe that simultaneous meetings throughout the state will give an impetus to the campaign that could be gained in no other way. Telegrams read at Saturday's rally in such volumes and so enthusiastically worded that there can be no doubt of the interest in the run-off campaign were cited by leaders as evidence that Moody supporters are in earnest about rolling up an overwhelming majority for him.

Dan Moody left Dallas Saturday night at 11 o'clock, following conferences with friends from various parts of the state. He spent Sunday in Austin and goes from there to Greenville, where he will speak Monday night. His Austin headitinerary which will touch practically every pat of the state.

Plans will be worked out at Monday night's meeting for the holding of a county wide Moody rally here either Wednesday or Thursday night. The date will be definitely depided upon and publicity will be given the meeting.

Every precinct in the county is at the county-wide rally here, and expected to have representatives local rallies will be held throughout the county. Moody forces desire to get out a big vote.

A number attended the Dallas meeting Saturday from Corsicana. Enthusiasm is high in behalf of Moody.

DRIVE TO BE MADE AGAINST SELLERS OF HOME BREWING PLANTS IN CHICAGO AREA

By Associated Press.

Chicago, Aug. 16.—A blow to home brewers and those who sell home brewing supplies is about to be delivered, E. C. Yellowly, prohibition administrator, revealed today.

The blow will be in the form of conspiracy indictments against Chicago concerns where amateur brewers have been getting supplies. Mr. Yellowly and District Attorney Olson consider the new move of such importance that the latter has consented to assume personal charge of the investigation and will present his report to the grand jury in a few days together with substantialing the evidence.

The law forbids the sale of stills or relatedapp aratus. It has been inoperative because of an interpretation of the rule which holds that she various parts of a still do not constitute such unless they are properly assembled and functioning as parts of the still.

Special agents are reported to have obtained evidence that stills essentially complete, are on display in the windows of numerous stores, with the missing parts nearby.

COAL AND MINERAL DEPOSITS IN MEXICO HELD TO BELONG TO NATION BY NEWEST LAWS

By ssociated Press.

Mexico City, Aug. 13.—The Mexican Government now rules coal deposits national property, as it recently declared petroleum to be the property of the Nation, and not of the land holder. The new mining laws, which have just gone into effect by publication, declare that all commercially valuable minerals and precious stones are the property of the Nation.

These laws will have a tremendous effect on the mining industry of Mexico, in which hundreds of millions of dollars of American money have been invested. Their full effect is not yet apparent. American mining men will be more or less at sea until the laws have been interpreted and actually applied. Apparently existing concessions will be affirmed or new concessions issued although hereafter "foreign corporations under no circumstances can secure such (mining property) concessions."

Individuals may obtain concessions only by waiving the protection of their home governments in so far as their Mexican investments are concerned.

The new laws cover with great detail granting and management of mining concessions. An elaborate system of inspection and supervision by government agents is set up. Heavy fines will follow failure to comply with the various requirements. In granting new concessions of all kinds preference will be given to Mexican citizens.

It is required by the new laws that 90 per cent of the workers of any mining concessions must be Mexican citizens and that from 50 to 90 per cent of the technical forces, such as engineers and chemists, shall be Mexicans.

METHODISTS CLOSE SUCCESSFUL MEETING AT PLEASANT GROVE

More than four hundred people attended the closing service of the revival meeting which has been in progress at the Pleasant Grove Methodist Church for the past two weeks. This has been the best attended, most interesting and successful revival held at this church since the days years ago when this church was noted all over Navarro county for its great annual spiritual awakenings. The services have been conducted out doors where the nights have been wonderfully cool and pleasant. Several hundred people have attended nightly and much interest has been manifested.

Besides a revived interest in religious work in the church and a general awakening in the community, there were eleven additions to the Pleasant Grove membership as a result of the meeting.

Rev. Van Morrison, pastor of the Methodist Church at Emhouse, did the preaching and labored earnestly for the conversion of souls. He was ably assisted by Mr. Williams of Corsicana as leader in the song service.

Rev. George Smith, pastor of the Corsicana circuit, of which Pleasant Grove is one point, expressed himself Sunday night as being highly pleased and gratified with the results of the meeting. He goes tonight to Angus for a week's meeting, ad next week to Grape Creek, and the following week to David Chapel.

Cotton Opens at Advance.

By Associated Press.

New York, Aug. 16.—Increasing apprehensions of damage to coming crop prospects by insects of various kinds appeared the dominating factor in the cotton market at the opening today. Buying on reports of this kind was stimulated by relatively firm Liverpool cables and after opening steady at an advance of 2 to 11 points, active months sold 15 to 21 points net higher in early trading.

October advanced to 16.74 and January touched the same price, recoveries of about 58 to 64 points from the low levels of last Friday morning. There was some realizing and southern selling at the higher prices but the market was within four or five points of the best at the end of the first hour.

Trading was less active after the initial buying orders had been supplied and prices reacted under realizing. A little local selling also developed on the belief that the covering of shorts was easing the technical position of the market. Offerings were not heavy, however, and the market was holding fairly steady at mid-day with December holding around 16.69 or about six to ten points net higher on the general list.

The first of the private mid-month crop reports, estimating the condition at 68.5 as of August 9 and the indicated yield at 15,758,000 bales, caused some selling shortly after mid-day. Prices sagged off only a few points, however, and later firmed up on detailed weather reports showing showers at many points in the Southwest. Dec. advance to 16.68 with the general market showing net gains of 27 to 32 points and prices were only a few points of ffrom the best at 2 o'clock.

New Orleans Shows Gains.

By Associated Press.

New Orleans, La., Aug. 16.—General rains in the cotton belt over Sunday and favorable Liverpool cables enabled cotton market here to open firm today. First trades showed gains of 9 to 15 points and the market continued to advance during the first hour, until October traded to 16.76, December 16.67 and January 16.63, or 21 to 23 points above Saturday's close. Around the end of the first hour realizing caused prices to lose 4 to 6 points.

The market continued to rule steady and within the earlier range during most of the morning being supported by reports of continued rains today in the belt, and by advices of increasing insect activity. Some realizing developed but the offerings were absorbed at levels 5 to 8 points under the early highs. While the market was less active near mid-session the tone was steady and pricecs showed little change.

The market became firmer after mid-session, owing to active buying and covering due to unfavorable crop reports particularly from Texas October traded up to 16.98, December to 16.89 and January to 16.82. Reports of insect damage in Texas were alarming.

Wheat Prices Ease Off.

By Associated Press.

Chicago, Aug. 16.—Wheat prices opened the week with a firm undertone, but initial gains failed to hold. Foreign buying appeared to be more than counterbalanced as a result of local speculative selling. Opening 1-4 off to 5-8 up, wheat receded all around to a little below Saturday's finish.

Stocks Open Higher.

By Associated Press.

New York, Aug. 16.—Stock prices opened the new week at generally higher levels, with initial dealings featured by a rise in Chesapeake and Ohio to a new high record near 150. Other representative rail shares were in demand but profit taking caused mild recessions in General Motors, U. S. Steel and other industrial leaders.

The uniformly favorable character of recent domestic trade news was considered responsible for an accumulation of buying over the week-end which carried a number of specicalties to new top prices. Among these were Allied Chemical, General Asphalt, United Cigar Stores and Electric Storage Battery. Trading continued extremely quiet through the early dealings. Railroad issues were firm but failed to make much headway despite the outlook for larger earings, while oil shares marked time pending the outcome of the Standard Oil of New Jersey meeting today. Profit taking held some of the most popular issues, including General Electric, in check.

Foreign exchanges opened slightly lower with sterling, French and Belgian francs all easing off.

Unusually Formed Egg Is Exhibited

An egg of unusual formation was brought to the Sun office Tuesday morning.

In fact, it was an egg within an egg.

Mrs. R. E. Whorton, who resides eight miles East of Corsicana found an egg of exceptional size in her chicken yard. Upon breaking the shell a perfectly formed egg with shell was found on the inside of the outer shell. Only the white of an egg occupied the space between the two shells.

The freak egg was brought to Corsicana by Fred Spence and has attracted much attention.

"Corsicana Has It."

COUNTY TAX RATE IS FIXED SAME AS DURING LAST YEAR

The county tax rate for Navarro county for this year will be forty-five cents on the $100 valuation as was the case last year, it was announced at the special meeting of the Navarro county commissioners' court Saturday morning. The State rate this year will be 65c as compared with 77c last year per $100 valuation, a reduction on the State rate of 12c. It was intimated that the bonds for roads, etc. would probably be about the same as in former years.

A conference of representatives of the banks of the county was held with the commissioners' court Saturday morning relative to the assessment and taxation of banks and bank properties. The banks are being assessed on a 50c basis for capital, surplus and profits. The banks stated that they were willing for a 40c basis on the capital, surplus and profits with no reduction for losses as shown by the condition of the banks at the first of the year. The matter was deferred by the commissioners' until the special meeting which will be held next Friday morning at 10 o'clock. It was hinted that a committee from the bankers would meet with the court but no definite announcement was made

Representatives of banks of Corsicana, Frost, Blooming Grove, Richland, Emhouse, Kerens and other towns of the county were present.

The commissioners made an advancement to L. H. Elkins, tax assessor, of $1,160 for the payment of the salaries of deputies in his office. The motion was made by Commissioner Jack Megarity and seconded by Commissioner Reuben Milligan.

The double delinquent roll prepared by Tax Collector George W. Boyd for the years of 1924-1925 which is required every two years was approved and was sent to the State Comptroller for his approval Saturday afternoon.

A petition signed by a number of citizens for $300 toward the demonstration work of a colored demonstration agent in this county was approved.

The petition of John W. Stewart, sheriff, for three deputies, E. K. Hervey, M. J. Hartley and Z. J. Platt on a commission was granted.

TWENTY REPORTED KILLED THURSDAY AMMUNITION BLAST

By Associated Press.

Budapest, Hungary, Aug. 15.—It is reported that 20 persons were killed in the explosion yesterday on Shepel Island, near Budapest in the Mancred-Weiss ammunition factory. It had been impossible, however, to confirm the report owing to the large area covered by the factory and the intense heat from the burning buildings.

The concussion was so great that windows were broken in Budapest, 18 miles away. It is reported that hundreds of persons over a wide area were injured by flying tiles and falling chimneys.

EDITORIAL APPEARS IN FERGUSON PAPER HINTING AT ACTION

By Associated Press.

Dallas, Aug. 13.—The threat of court proceedings on account of alleged illegal contributions to gubernatorial candidates still protruded itself into the Texas political situation today.

While the forces of Attorney General Dan Moody and Governor Miriam A. Ferguson, chief jousters in the Democratic turney, were diligently preparing for the short, decisive combat, there was evidence that the Fergusons intend to carry their fight against Moody up to the day of the general election in November and beyond.

The principal evidence of this intention is an editorial in the Ferguson Forum, a weekly paper, published by James E. Ferguson, the Governor's husband, at Temple. The editorial, considered the words of the Governor and her husband, states that even though Moody should win the Democratic nomination in the August 28 run-off primary his name "could be kept off the general election ticket in November" because of campaign contributions alleged to have been received from other candidates.

Says Will Lose Votes.

"The vital question for the voter," said the editorial, "is will he or she lose a vote by voting for Moody. It would appear from the reading of the law that such undoubtedly would be the case."

The editorial referred to campaign contributions to Moody from other candidates in contravention of the primary law, and was taken to mean that the Fergusons have not abandoned the idea of bringing court action to bar Moody's name.

Meeting this threat is a statement from Judge D. W. Wilcox of Georgetown, one of Moody's campaign managers, that the Moody forces were prepared for the issue.

"We are in a position to face any tribunal on the issue raised," said Judge Wilcox, "and to show that no law has been violated, and I may also state that we are prepared on the issue of the right of the Governor to have her name placed on the official ballot.

"Of course the Moody forces will start no litigation unless Mr. Ferguson concludes to take such a course. Dan Moody is not a man who would attempt to defeat the results of an election by court proceedings. Being a Democrat he believes in the right of the people to rule, and in showing obedience to the will of the people as expressed at the ballot boxes."

Like Drowning Man.

Moody's statement says that Ferguson attemping to raise the Ku Klux Klan issue, is another evidence of the "drowning man grasping at a straw," and the claim that Moody never accepted the Ferguson challenge to resign is "ridiculous."

"It has provoked general disgust at the hands of both the Ferguson and Moody supporters."

Judge Wilcox said that a large number of voters who supported Mrs. Ferguson in the first primary have notified Moody headquarters here that they will no longer support her.

The run-off campaign on Moody's part moved forward with evidence that crowds are coming from all over the state to his state-wide rally in Dallas tomorrow afternoon. Special cars have been reserved at Houston and other cities to carry Moody supporters. Lynch Davidson who was a candidate in the first primary, announced he would be in the delegation.

KLAN PARADE TO BE HELD CAPITAL ON SEPTEMBER 13

By Associated Press.

Washington, Aug. 13.—The Ku Klux Klan would like to parade again up Pennsylvania Avenue from the Peace Monument at the foot of Capitol Hill to the Treasury.

A formal request for a permit to march September 13 has been received by Major Edwin B. Hesse, Superintendent of Police, from L. A. Mueller, who signed himself as the "Representative in the District of Columbia" of the organization.

The letter said that members would march in full regalia with visors up, as they did on August 8 of last year. The permit will be issued, Major Hesse said, as a matter of routine.

Commissioner Cuno Rudolph said that two weeks ago Klan representatives asked him informally about parading while masked, but that he told them they could not do so.

INTERESTING FEATURES OF FOREIGN TOUR DESCRIBED BY FORMER CORSICANA WOMAN

Mrs. Abe Mulkey seems to be one of the luckiest women in Corsicana this summer, in that she has two nieces in foreign countries that write her such newsy letters describing the people, customs, points of interest, etc., of each country in which they happen to be. On Tuesday we reproduced a letter from her niece Miss Madge Mulkey, who is now in Shanghai, China, and today you are to have the pleasure of reading an interesting letter from Miss Lou Allie Patterson, who with Mrs. A. A. Wortham of this city, is touring Europe and the Orient with the Armstrong Party. This party is under the supervision of Mrs. A. J. Armstrong, wife of Dr. Armstrong of Baylor University of Waco, and numerous other Texans, including Mrs. G. C. Groce, Misses Ruth and Aileen Chapman, are members of the same party. Dr. Armstrong is touring Europe, too, and conducting the Browning Pilgrimage.

Miss Patterson's letter is as follows:

Beyrouth, Syria, July 2, 1926.

Dear Aunt Lou:

I've been going so fast and furiously that I haven't had time to write, but have thought of you often and wished that you were with us.

Spent one day and night sightseeing in Paris, but it rained all the time we were there. Will return there for a longer stay later on. Mrs. Groce of Waxahachie joined us there, and will be one of our party through the Holy Land.

We have enjoyed every minute of our time on this Mediterranean cruise. The day in beautiful Naples was jammed full of interest, although our day was interrupted on account of a funeral there. Ten big men were killed in an accident the day before by a falling balcony, and the whole city was in mourning. Every shop was closed and the windows darkened. We drove over the city, and visited the Museum. Will go to Vesuvius and other places of interest on our return.

Athens was wonderful. Went to the Acropolis and Temple of Bacchus. National Museum, Temple of Theseum, Tower of the Winds, Temple of Jupiter, Stadium, Old Cemetery and Mars Hill. We had the ministers of our party, and there were four of them, read from the Bible while standing on the very spot where Paul had stood. We also had a prayer and sang "Blest Be the Tie That Binds." It was very impressive. We stopped at exclusive hotel in Athens, and met many other Americans there.

We had a wonderful stop in Constantinople. The panorama of the city seen on arrival was marvelous. We visited the Museum of Antiques within the walls of Seraglio. Saw many beautiful tombs of the Fourth Century B. C. Spent one afternoon in the grand bazaars where swarm a crowd of vendors of all sorts of merchandise, and notably of carpets, embroideries, amber, beads, old armory, and everything one might want. It is customary over here to bargain a long time before buying anything.

Our trip on the Bosphorus was one of the most delightful experiences that we have had. It is 17 miles long and from 600 to 3000 feet wide. It is undeniably the finest sight to be seen in Constantinople. Its sloping banks, bordered with palaces, villas, old picturesque houses and gardens form one of the most beautiful spectacles in the world. We visited Roberts College, the largest American school in this part of the world. Many nationalities attend school there, but everything is taught in English. We went through two of the oldest mosques and through an old Sultan's palace. Had dinner at a very famous Russian cafe with music and dancing, all by Russians. The food is strange and not good like our American food. Bread is worst of anything. Its hard, dry, sour and everything but good.

We stopped at Smyrna, Rhodes and Cypress. Had the joy of riding from steamer to port in little sail boats. Saw the famous Smyrna rugs, and went through the Bazaars. At Cypres we saw them making the famous lace that it is noted for.

Then we came to Beyrouth, went to American college, mosques, out to Dog River Canyon, and such a wonder trip it was—along banana plantations, orange and lemon groves and mulberry groves. The trees are kept trimmed and the new growth is used for the silk worm. Saw the factory where the silk is made, and went through the Armenian district. Saw thousands of children in poverty, but they seem happy.

From these we went to Damascus, this was the most thrilling of all. The was is on, and soldiers guarded us everywhere. The auto roads are closed on account of bandits, so we went on the train. That trip over the Lebanons was one never to be forgotten. Its the loveliest country that I ever saw. On the East side it is all beautifully cultivated, every bit of mountain is terraced, and there are orchards, and gardens, and fields of grain. The donkey and camel are the beasts of burden. It all seemed like dreamland. Before we crossed over the mountains we saw Mount Hermon where the Transfiguration took place.

And then on the west side, it reminded us of Big Thompson Canyon in Colorado. It was cool, and no dust until we reached Damascus and experienced a wind storm equal to any West Texas ever produced. Soldiers everywhere and bombarding every night. We were not allowed out of the hotel after dark. Soldiers stood at the hotel entrance, in the court and gardens, and one patroled the corridors all night. We were the first Americans allowed in the city since January. We went to the mosque where they have the head of John the Baptist in a tomb, to museums, bazaars and the Street Called Straight, to the home of Ananias, to the house of Naman the leper. We visited the brass factory, and saw all the inlaid copper and silver put into the brass and into wood. Children from six years old up were hammering and chiseling brass. Was to go to the building where Paul escaped from prison but the fighting was in that part of the city, and we were refused permission to go. We leave here for Tyre and Sidon, then Jerusalem

Our first month is gone. It has been cool all the way—only one hot day in Athens. The sea voyage is perfect.

Mrs. Armstrong, our conductor, is a charming person. So far our trip has been beyond expectations.

We are starting on our first long trip in cars in the morning. The highways are fine. We haven't seen a fly or a mosquito yet ,and no one has screens.

Every day we are more thankful that we are American women, when we see the women over here. The Syrian women are all in black and have their faces veiled. The men here all wear the fez, or turban, and some of them wear shawls over their heads.

I have never eaten such delicious apricots, plums, apples, pears and figs as we are having over here. Watermelons are in abundance.

We saw very few automobiles in Syria, but the little Victoria carriage takes their place. They drive two horses, and have a horn on the carriage similar to an automobile horn. The driver honks every minute, and the noise drives us mad.

There are lots of queer things to be seen traveling around like this, but there are so many things to larn, and so much beauty in this old world.

Hope to write you again somewhere along the line.

Lovingly,

L. A. P.

SAFETY CRUSADE IN SAN ANTONIO; ARRESTS NUMEROUS

By Associated Press.

San Antonio, Aug. 14.—Murder charges will be filed against motorists responsible for accidents in which fatalities occur, Bexar county officers engaged in a city-wide safety drive announced Saturday.

This means that careless drivers who run down pedestrians or fatally injure occupants of another car will face penitentiary sentences instead of being let off with a fine as has been the cas when tried under the negligent collision law.

This drastic action came as a climax to a week's campaign against careless drivers, violators of the State anti-glare headlight law and failure of motorists to have brakes properly adjusted. Up to Saturday more than 700 persons had been put on probation by county and city police working together on the downtown streets and county roads.

DENY INJUNCTION PREVENT SUBMITTING REFERENDUM VOTERS

By Associated Press.

New York, Aug. 13.—Supreme Court Justice Crain today denied the application of Helen M. Albert who sued as a citizen to enjoin the board of elections and mayor from submitting the state prohibition referendum to the voters next fall.

Mrs. Albert, a resident of Woodhaven, alleged that the recent act of the legislature providing for the referendum was unconstitutional.

The New York Womens Committee for Law Enforcement ordered the suit.

Justice Crain held the board of elections to be a state agency and hence no tax payer's action could be maintained against them individually or as commissioners of elections.

TEXAS TO RECEIVE FIRST COMMERCIAL AIRWAY BUSINESS

By Associated Press.

Paul Smith's N. Y., Aug. 13.—A transcontinental and a southwestern airway were approved today by President Coolidge as the first two commercial routes laid down by the Department of Commerce in its development of civilian aviation.

The transcontinental route as approved in conference with Secretary Hoover of the Department of Commerce, will run from New York to Cleveland, Chicago, Iowa City, Des Moines, Omaha, North Platte, Cheyenne and Salt Lake City, from where there will be one leg to San Francisco and another to Los Angeles.

The southwestern route will run from Chicago to Dallas and Fort Worth, Texas, by way of Moline, St. Joseph, Kansas City, Wichita, Oklahoma City and Tulsa.

MANY PROMINENT POLITICIANS ARE GATHERED DALLAS

By Associated Press.

Dallas, Texas, Aug. 14.—Moody leaders stated this morning that delegations from every corner of Texas were converging on Dallas for the rally scheduled at 2 p. m. today in behalf of Attorney General Dan Moody for Governor.

Oscar B. Colquitt, former Governor, who is to be temporary chairman of the meeting, announced that headquarters had received word that between 150 and 170 counties would be represented. Telegrams and letters in the hands of the committee indicated that the delegations were coming from as far west as Lubbock, from Texarkana on the northeast, Beaumont and Houston on the Southeast, and San Antonio on the Southwest.

The Texas State Fair grounds was in readiness for any number that might come. A platform has been erected in front of the large grandstand at the race course and on this Moody and a number of his friends were scheduled to speak. The grand stand seats about 7,000.

Moody was expected to start speaking about 3 p. m. According to the arrangements, there will be a number of ten-minute speeches preceding the two principal speeches by Moody and Cone Johnson of Tyler. Mr. Johnson has been selected as the curtain raiser for Moody but there was some doubt about his ability to appear owing to the illness of his wife. Mrs. Johnson was operated on yesterday at Fort Worth.

Among the other speakers selected are: Henry J. Dannenbaum, Houston; Henry L. Carpenter, Greenville; John Boyle, San Antonio, Whit Davidson, Marshall, and Dr. Robert Scott, Temple.

Lynch Davidson, Houston, who was a candidate for Governor in the first primary, was not on the formal program, but it was expected he would be called on for a speech.

A brass band will play, after leading a parade about the streets just before the gathering. Loud speakers have been arranged in the grand stand and nearby so that all may hear though they may not be able to get within sight of the speakers' platform.

Moody was resting at a hotel here this morning. It is understood he completed his speech last night before leaving Austin, and that the address would contain a complete reply to the recent announcement of Governor Miriam A. Ferguson charging that Moody was the candidate of the Ku Klux Klan.

Announcement of Representative T. K. Irwin of Dallas unsuccessful candidate for Attorney General, that he expected to prefer charges of "a sensational nature" on the floor of the house in the special session, gave added spice and further speculation as to the outcome of the primary.

It was not disclosed as to what these charges would be, but said it was a matter of extreme seriousness affecting a certain section of the state.

Ferguson forces, lead by Joe K. Morris, who has headquarters here, were proceeding with plans for the campaign as Moody supporters gathered for the rally. Morris said speakers would soon start over the state for the Governor and that an itinery for James E. Ferguson was being arranged.

Ferguson Planning Campaign.

By Associated Press.

Austin, Aug. 14.—The time and place of opening campaign speeches by Governor Miriam A. Ferguson and her husband, James E. Ferguson, likely will be decided late Saturday or early Sunday, Guy Holcomb, Ferguson campaign manager, said.

"A large number of invitations have been received from every section asking the Governor to open the run-off campaign here or there" he said.

PACES BACK AND FORTH IN HOME WITH TWO CHILDREN AS SHIELDS AGAINST POSSEMEN

By ssociated Press.

Cincinnati, ug. 13.—Scott Workman, aged 40, a farmer, who shot and killed his wife, Nora, aged 38, at their home near New Richmond today, was taken to the Battavia jail this afternoon. His defiance of Sheriff Fred Croswell and a posse ended when Sheriff Croswell ignored Workman's threats, entered the house and arrested him.

By Associated Press.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Aug. 13.—With the body of his wife at his feet, Scott Workman, aged 40, a farmer, paced back and forth before the windows of his little farm house near New Richmond, Ohio, today, defying Sheriff Fred Croswell of Clemont county, and a posse of 100 men, surrounding the house, to fire at him and two babies, youngest of nine children, which he held in his arms.

It was at first reported that Workman had killed the two children in addition to his wife.

Holding up his children, one in each arm, a girl of three, and a boy of seven months, the farmer, believed to be crazed with drink, taunted the members of the posse posted behind trees and other vantage points about the house, to shoot at him.

"Go ahead! Shoot 'em! Shoot 'em!" he cried, as he tossed the wailing children up and down in his arms in view of the distracted possemen.

"Sure, I killed my wife. I'll kill these here, too, if you shoot."

One marksman who had scaled the Workman house lay on the eaves of the roof, with his revolver ready to shoot down the madman if he appeared without the threshold.

Others were ready with rifles and pistols to pour a volley into the farmers body if he once let out of his arms the babes which formed his shield.

Workman had fired several shots from his automatic pistol at members of the posse but the sight of the terror stricken infants, clinging to their father, who at any moment might crash out their lives, silenced any return of the fire.

Pangburn's Ragtime Chocolates are rapidly becoming nationally known. MRS. JENNIE M'CREE DIED HERE SUNDAY; BURIAL AT FROST

WAS MEMBER OF SUN-LIGHT CORRESPONDENTS FOR MANY YEARS

Mrs. Jennie McCree, aged 69 years, 11 months and one day, died at the family residence at the corner of West Eleventh avenue and South Eighteenth street, Sunday afternoon at 1 o'clock and the remains were taken to Frost Monday for interment. The funeral services were held at Frost at 10:30 o'clock.

She is survived by her husband, J. T. McCree, and two children, Johnny McCree and Mrs. John Mackey, both of Corsicana.

Mrs. McCree for a number of years, when the Sun-Light Chats organization was at its height, wrote for the Daily Sun and Semi-Weekly Morning Light under the pen name of "Topsy," and not only recorded the happenings of her immediate neighborhood in a breezy and newsy manner, but also wrote interestingly of the current topics of the day. She was one of the most popular and most faithful of the "Chats," and was always a leader in the annual picnics of that organization that were held for many years. In the passing of Mrs. McCree a real mother in Israel has gone to her reward, and her reward will indeed be great for she scattered sunshine and happiness throughout her life, and was always to be found ministering to someone less fortunate than herself.

LEAFWORM POISONS SCARCE; SUBSTITUTE IS RECOMMENDED

A. AND M. ENTOMOLOGIST GIVES RECIPE FOR COTTON PEST POISON

Special to the Sun.

College Station, Texas, Aug. 6.—R. R. Reppert, entomologist of the Extension Department, Texas Agricultural & Mechanical College of Texas, gave out the following statement today:

The supply of calcium arsenate, Paris green, and lead arsenate as recommended by the Entomologist, for the control of leafworms, is apparently exhausted and farmers are in need of another poison

Mixtures of white arsenic and soda compounds, unless very carefully used, will result in injury to cotton, and are ordinarily not recommended. However, in the present emergency it probably means either use of these materials with injury in some cases or the total loss of the crop by the attack of the insect, and we are giving below formulae which farmers have themselves used.

Boil together 5 pounds white arsenic with 5 pounds sal soda in 5 gallons water until all the arsenic is dissolved. Ordinarily this will be accomplished in about 15 minutes. If sal soda is not available, use instead five cans of concentrated lye such as may be obtained from grocery stores for soap making. These five cans will be equal to about four pounds.

After boiling until the arsenic is dissolved, some water will have been lost by evaporation; more should then be added to make up exactly five gallons of the stock solution.

Two quarts of this stock solution should be added to 50 gallons of water for immediate application to the cotton. Large drops of this dilute mixture or excessive amounts of the liquid on the leaves will burn, consequently a machine should be used that breaks the liquid up into a very fine mist and so the foliage is merely moistened without running or dropping from the leaves. Farmers have reported using one quart of stock dip in 50 gallons of water with success, spraying in the same manner.

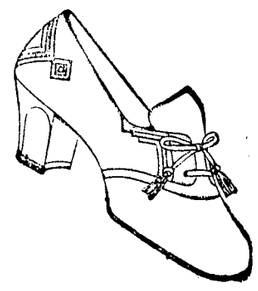

Experience on the part of farmers has indicated that if a gallon of slack lime and three or four gallons of black strap molasses are added to 50 gallons of water, along with the stock solution, the danger of injury will be reduced.

In handling these mixtures the danger to the cotton foliage as well as to men and animals is so great that we decline to accept any responsibility for any injurious results.

Several companies in Texas handling arsenical poisons are preparing and have for sale, the mixtures as given above. These may not be in the concentration that we have named, and in diluting, persons should be guided by the directions given by each company for their own product.

MILDRED CITIZENS HAVE AUTO CRASH DAWSON BRIDGE

Jesse Nelson and children came near having probably a fatal accident Monday morning early when their car ran off the bridge just west of Steve Hill's residence.

Mr. Nelson, with his five children, were en route from Mt. Calm to their home in Mildred, and approaching the bridge from the west, hit the banister and went over the side of the bridge. Fortunately none of the occupants were injured outside of bad bruises and continued their trip home, leaving the car here for repairs. It will be remembered that Mr. Nelson sang in the Christian meeting here last year and has numerous friends here.

The bridge where the accident occurred is a very bad place for people not familiar with the road, and within the past couple of years three cars have run off the bridge. However, it seems to be a lucky place, as there have been no fatalities.—Dawson Herald.

COTTON BELT WILL BUILD NEW DEPOT AT DAWSON SOON

Work was started by the Cotton Belt Railway Monday, preparatory to erecting a new depot at Dawson. We understand the new depot will occupy practically the same position as the old one, except that it will set back even with the Dawson Lumber Company's building and will be some larger than the old one. The building will be constructed in two sections, the office and waiting room being separated, by a passageway for trucks, from the freight and express room, all being under one roof. The floors will be of concrete.

An embankment is being thrown up between the first two crossings east of the present depot on which to extend the side-track south of the railroad; also the old cotton platform has been torn out, and we understand, will be placed south of the track, near its present location. Some three or four carloads of lumber have alerady arrived and have been unloaded. Dawson Herald.

BAZETTE DISTRICT EXPECTED BE SCENE OF ANOTHER TEST

Bazette area will probably get another oil test within the near future if signs prove right in oil circles at this time. Nothing definite has been given out concerning the proposed operation, but many local oil men are desirous of seeing another test put down in that section of Navarro county.

P. M. Lea has his acreage blocked for a deep test northwest of the Country Club on the Kerr tract and is waiting on a rig to get his work started. Since the Nigger Creek section has attracted oil interest considerably to that section recently every available rig has been moved there for service. Mr. Lea expects to lease a rig for puting down his test. This test will be drilled to 3,500 feet unless oil and gas are found at a lesser dpth.

"Corsicana Has It."

NUMEROUS BUILDING ACTIVITIES ARE NOW UNDER WAY IN CITY

Improvements in Corsicana at this time represent expenditures of well over $1,000,000, according to a resume of the activities that are either started or are being started. During the next twelve months Corsicana will experience probably the biggest civic expansion program in the history of the city.

During the last several months building permits in the city have dropped off considerably, that is compared with the growth of the town every year since 1922. During that expanse of years many residences were constructed here, and hundreds of thousands of dollars were turned loose in high types of homes, apartment houses and rent houses. The city has expanded by leaps and bounds, and for a time it caught up with its residential growth. Now comes an expansion in the business section, which coupled with the moneys being expended by the city government for street, water, sewer improvements and public school extensions, brings the total up to the staggering figures already set forth.

The largest building project under construction now is the new Davis Hotel and office building This will be a twin skyscraper civic improvement and will cost no less than $500,000. Preliminary work is already under way for this gigantic improvement. The old Hotel Main building is being torn down. Carpenters have been busy during the present week wrecking the interior, and by Sept. 1 work of razing the stone and brick walls will be started. This enterprise will require at least twenve months to be completed and will employ a large number of workmen for that entire period of time. This alone will be the means of turning large sums of money loose in the labor circles and will be a decided stimulus to business.

The next largest undertaking is the city paving program. A contract has been let for the paving of nineteen street units. On completion of the paving program the city within the next year will expend $300,000. This will give several miles of additional paved streets, and will be the finishing up of many gaps in the paving that now exists. Much labor will be employed in this work, and much material will be used adding much to the trade channels and will make for more healthy economic conditions.

F. P. McElwrath, Corsicana contractor, has been awarded the street paving contract and work will be under way as soon as the equipment necessary for the job is assembled, which will be before September 1, it was announced Friday.

The streets included in the big contract already let are as follows:

South Fourteenth street from Seventh avenue to the plant of the Southern Ice & tilities Company.

North Twenty-fifth street from Second avenue to Woodlawn avenue.

South Thirty-first street from Seventh avenue to Ninth avenue.

East Third avenue from Tenth street to Seventh street.

West Seventh avenue from Twentieth street to Thirty-first street.

Thirteenth street from Fourth avenue to Cotton Belt tracks.

North Twelfth street from Third avenue to Fifth avenue.

West Third avenue from Twenty-ninth street to Thirty-first street.

Thirty-first street from Third avenue to Fourth avenue.

West Fourth avenue from Thirty-first street a distance of 300 feet west.

West First avenue from Fifteenth street to Nineteentth street

East Collin sreet from Beaton street to Tenth street.

West Second avenue from Twenty-seventh street to Twenty-ninth street.

East Seventh avenue from Seventh street to Ninth street.

Seventh street from Third avenue to Ninth avenue.

West Tenth avenue from Twelfth street to Fourteenth street.

South Eleventh street from Seventh avenue to the Cotton Mill.

West Sycamore avenue from Nineteenth street to Twenty-fourth street.

West Sycamore avenue from Twenty-fourth street to Twenty-eighth street.

There will be other street improvements made by the expriation of another year in addition to those already authorized. Water lines are being extended in various localities.

Work has already started on the city's big sewer main which will give to a large portion of North Corsicana service.

The big main is being laid at a cost to the city of $40,000. This job alone entails considerable expenditures for labor and materials. Trenching machines are digging the ditches for the new main. Ager & Gentry of San Benito have the contract for this job. The new main will run from the Jester and Oaklawn Additions around the meanders of Post Oak creek, crossing North Beaton street, leading underneath the Southern Pacific Railway trestle where intersection is made with the Trinity & Brazos Valley Railway, traversing East Corsicana and on to the sewer disposal plant east of town.

The new line will serve also a large portion of East Corsicana, as it will pass along by the negro park. The Jackson (negro) School will be served with sewerage and a large number of residences which have heretofore been without sewerage will be provided for. Connecting with the big main is another line that will join it at North Thrteenth street. This subsidiary line will run from North Twentieth street down the little branch, through the city park and Oakwood cemetery. A large acreage will be served by this line alone. It will also call for additional sewer lines connecting with it from time to time.

Included in this same undertaking a large main will be laid along West Twelfth avenue from Twentieth street to Twenty-eighth.

Work has started on the erection of the new Robert E. Lee school, corner West Fourth and Thirtieth This building will add much to the school facilities of the city in that it will relieve other grade schools of an overflow of students, who during the last year have found it very much crowded in attending. This building will be erected at a cost to the city of $100,000. An annex is to be erected to the William B. Travis school, giving more space for classes. Additions will likely be made also to the Stephen F. Austin school and the David Crockett school. The school on Collin Hill will take care of a large number of children living in the westerly part of town. At the same time the distance to and from school will be lessened, and the congestion will be relieved at the other schools.

Drane & McKee have obtained a long time lease on the property situated just west of their present place of business and will erect a brick building extending their garage and filling station all the way back to Twelfth street. An expenditure of $15,000 or more will be made.

This will add much to the down town section. The new plant, together with the present building will give this firm 30,000 square feet of floor space. Service will be given from both Eleventh and Twelfth streets with an al-weather filling station. Accessories stocks and machine shops for washing and repairing cars, as well as storage space will be enlarged.

The First Christian church has under construction a Sunday school annex which is to cost about $30,000. This church improvement follows closely on the heels of about $80,000 expended by the First Methodist church for an annex. The Methodist also plan to make large improvements in their present church edifice to be in keeping with the Sunday school new building and with other churches of the town.

The First Baptist church last year completed its $150,000 edifice and are now tearing away the old church building. Other improvements will likely be made on the lot left vacant by the removal of the old church.

Other churches have made substantial building improvements here within the last two or three years, and many fine dwellings were completed during the latter part of last year and the early part of the present year.

Repairs have recently been done to downtown business structures which total into several thousands of dollars. The Beckett building on Beaton street, recently damaged by fire, has been repaired at a cost of several thousand dollars. The Marks building, 106 North Beaton, is also undergoing repairs following a recent fire that damaged it considerably. Other old buildings have been worked over considerably. There will no doubt be much repair work done to buildings here in the next few months.

Taking the entire program into consideration Corsicana is stepping into probably the biggest era of expansion it has ever experienced.

Money expended on school improvements, $150,000; churches, $30,000; hotel building, $500,000; sewer extensions, $40,000; street paving, $300,000; Drane & McKee, $15,000; and a total of $1,035,000 is shown. To this must be added $25,000 being spent for repairs to damaged buildings. The $80,000 spent by the Methodist church and other contemplated extensions are not included in the million dollar survey.

MOODY ANSWERED STATEMENT MADE BY GOVERNOR IN DALLAS

By Associated Press.

Dallas, Texas, Aug. 14.—James E. Ferguson husband of Governor Miriam A. Ferguson, was indicted here today as the author of "Political Perfidy" by Attorney General Dan Moody, delivering the first speech of his run-off campaign before an audience at Fair Park.

Moody hurled at the Governor's husband strong phrases in reply to the statement of last Tuesday in which the Governor announced that she was in the race with all her heart. He said this statement was Ferguson's and called in "political claptrap," declaring that the former governor, speaking in the nome de plume of his wife, had sought to divert the issue "from his perfidy."

The words that Ferguson himself is purported to have used in reference to the celebrated challenge from the Governor to Moody, were turned back at Ferguson when the Attorney General quoted statements indicating that the governor was acting on the assumption that Moody had accepted the challenge.

Moody dealt with the Klan issue, the challenge, the gasoline tax, and school taxes, and declared that the issue was still "Fergusonism." He declared that the statement from the Governor announcing her intention to stay in the race completes the record of "Fergusonism" and sustains the charges that Fergusonism means "promises not performed and never intended to be performed."

"The issue of this run-off campaign is the same as the issue in the preceding primary," said Moody. "It is Fergusonism. One promise or less made and violated cannot change the issue before the people of Texas. Ferguson has sought in his latest statement to change the issue and divert the public mind from his perfidy.

"In his latest statement he seeks to justify his change of front by asserting that I took an interest of the election of a senator from this senatorial district to the State Senate. He would like to make of that a campaign issue. Like many of his political utterances, this is pure fabrication, because I took no interest in that contest and I did not express in either public or private any preference between the men who were candidates for that position."

Moody referred to the race between Thomas B. Love and Senator John Davis, defeated candidate for re-election. Ferguson charged that Love was one of the "Butte Republican bolters" who voted for the Republican candidate for Governor in the last election.

He handled the Ku Klux Klan matter in these words: "Ferguson attempts to renew the Klan question in the hope that he might repeat the history of 1924, and by engendering bitter prejudice and hatred further foist himself upon the people of Texas. He would inveigle me into a discussion of that question by making unsupported charges which have as their purpose the creation of an impression upon the public mind which he knows to be false.

"His representations with reference to this matter are without foundation in fact and are but a phantom which he chases in the hope that he may gain a political profit. Men whom he represents to have supported me in the past primary, actively opposed me and sought to prevent my nomination. But the truth has never been an obstacle in Ferguson's way in his political utterances.

"Mr. Ferguson knows that I have no understanding with the Klan; he knows I wrote the anti-mask bill at his request, and I am not in favor of its repeal and he knows that if elected Governor I will be dictated to by no one but will at all times consult only the welfare of the state in determining the course of my official conduct. His representations with reference to these matters are made in an attempt to again practice deception upon the state of Texas."

He described the Ferguson rule in Texas as a "dictatorship," and asked that the Government be returned to "responsible hands."

In reference to the challenge by Governor Ferguson, under which Moody was to resign his office if she led him one vote, Moody said:

"Mr. Ferguson now writes under the nom de plume of the Governor (and I say that because that is conceded by all and doubted by none, that Jim is the author of the latest newspaper statement emanating from the executive office) that I never accepted the challenge. I have been under the fixed impression since that Saturday night in San Antonio (the night Moody said he accepted the challenge) that I had accepted it in a most positive and emphatic manner, and it is my judgment that the people of Texas universally were under the impression that the challenge had been accepted. When I say universally, I do not mean to exclude the Governor, because apparently the Governor herself considered that the challenge had been accepted. Let me read an Associated Press dispatch of May 26 reporting an interview with the chief executive:

"'Austin, May 26.—(A.P.)—More than half a dozen applications have been made for appointment as attorney general by attorneys, Governor Miriam A. Ferguson said Wednesday. This followed, she said, acceptance by Attorney General Dan Moody of the Governor's challenge to resign if Moody receives one more vote than she in the Democratic primaries.'

"There will be many people in Texas who will believe that Mr. Ferguson himself understood that the challenge had been accepted, because it was the current rumor over the state that he had promised an appointment as attorney general to one or more of those who had applied.

"As late as July 26, Mr. Ferguson was still writing in the name of his wife and on that occasion, according to the newspapers he wrote as follows: 'In compliance with an agreement heretofore made and bowing to the will of the people expressed at the polls on Saturday, July 24, 1926, I desire to say that I shall resign the office of Governor upon the happening of the matters hereinafter referred to, which I hope in no event will be later than November 1, 1926.

"'I also withdraw from the race for the nomination for the office of governor in the Democratic primaries. The returns are not yet completed and it is not known now whether a run-off primary will be necessary or not. Be that as it may, however, I have determined that the lead of the opposition is so decisive that I would be doing violence to my own interests as well as to the interests of the people were I to further insist upon my candidacy and I have no desire to further embroil the people in a further campaign.'"

Moody calls Ferguson's gasoline tax issue "the latest political claptrap."

"His latest political claptrap," said Moody, "is his offer to the people of his so-called gasoline tax. Under the present law, a tax of one cent per gallon is levied upon the sale of gasoline in this state. This tax is paid, not by the oil companies, as Ferguson would have you believe, but by the consumer of the gasoline. In other words, for every gallon of gasoline purchased by a citizen of Texas, the citizen pays to the State a tax of one cent. Of this tax, three fourths goes to the highway fund and under the constitution one-fourth to the public school fund."

The attorney general said that the imperative present need was to reduce the amount of money necessary for the operation of the government by the practice of economy in the public expense.

"Should we not get rid of Ferguson and then take up the question of tax measures?" he asked. "It is my position that the people are now taxed sufficiently to adequately maintain the government, but if more money is needed to properly support the government, the legislature will pass the proper tax measures to accomplish that end, and if an increase in the gasoline tax is needed for that purpose, the increase will be made and the people of Texas don't need Ferguson to make it for them."

Referring to the public schools of the State, Moody said that Ferguson "in an effort to get into office for what would amount to his fourth term in the power of the governor's office, did not hesitate to become responsible for a reduction of more than $7,000,000 in the appropriation for education as compared with the appropriations made by the preceding administration.

"And his much boasted cut in the tax rate was made possible by reason of his cut in the appropriations for free education and will render it difficult, if not impossible, to adequately finance the schools through the coming year. When Ferguson boasts of his accomplishments in this particular, the people should remember that it was the free schools of Texas that were made to pay and that it is the children of Texas who are to suffer and who must pay for Ferguson's attempt to advance his political fortunes. When I am elected governor of Texas, I shall do everything which the power of the office permits to see that the free schools of Texas are properly financed and it shall be the purpose and object of my administration to bring a high school education within the reach of every boy and girl within this state, regardless of whether they live in the country or in town.

"Ferguson has declared that war is on. He has laid down the gage of battle and thrown defiance in the face of the people of Texas. We accept the challenge."

Secretary of State Scotland Has Job Calling for Versatility.

By Associated Press.

London, Aug. 14.—"A sort of political and administrative poohbah" is an English newspaper's characterization of the secretary of state for Scotland, Sir John Gilmour. His duties are of a far more varied character than those of any other minister. He combines the functions of a minister of education in regard to Scottish educational matters, a minister of agriculture in connection with Scottish farm affairs and a minister of health so far as Scottish health matters are concerned.

All this is in addition to the various minutiae in other branches of Scottish administration to which he has to attend. Almost every day the house of commons is sitting he is bombarded with questions from inquisitive Scottish members on such widely varied subjects as the reasons for the dismissal of an officer from the police force; how many men are employed in the Lochaber waterworks construction; why the Carnwith Parish council is refusing to extend relief to able bodied destitute persons, and similarly highly important questions of state. All told the secretary of state for Scotland has a job on his hands that would seem to go far toward justifying the paragrapher's appelative.

Muzzle for Race Tipsters.

A muzzle is shortly to be applied to exponents of a peculiarly British form of industry—the business of the oratorical tipster on the races. These human loud speakers have been holding forth, in numbers for some time on the outskirts of London's popular open air debating ground. Hyde Park, and their noisy and voluble career has finally been adjudged a nuisance.

The muzzling ordinance is embodied in a government bill in parliament which provdes that any person delivering a speech or address imparting information concerning betting or racing, "or advertsing that such information can be obtained elsewhere," shall be able to a 5 pound fine.

The office of works was rather apologetic in commenting on this measure—an abridgement of the traditional British liberty of speech An official expressed dislike at "making rules that interfere with the liberty of the subject," but explained that in his case there had an undoubted abuse of liberty as the number of tipsters had so increased as to constitute an annoyance to the public.

Says Poetry Is Dying.

John Masefield, poet and novelist, finds little encouragement these days for the spoken word in poetry. Addressing those who gathered for the yearly verse speaking contest at the Oxford examination schools, he bemoaned the preference of the new generation to sit in a dark chamber watching flashy films rather than listening to poetry beautfully declaimed.

Poetry in this form was nearly done for, he mourned, but it would persist to some degree despite everything.

"So long as there remain two enthusiasts and a plank there will be a poetical stage," he declared.

Not Literally Quoted.

Miss Gertrude Kingston, an actress, thinks she has a good joke on the ship news reporter at New York.

"The last time that I was there" she says, "the newspapermen told me that if I would tell them things about Shaw, Masefield, Wells and other celebrities, they would be careful to keep rigidly to what I said. I mentioned that Mr. Shaw was not a cold-hearted man; that he had helped many a lame dog over the stile. The next day I found myself reported as saying that Mr. Shaw regularly gave away three-fifths of his income."

Should Consult Women.

Wives of trade unionists should be invited to attend meetings of their husband's union whenever questions of policy are to be discussed, in the opinion of the executive committee of the Liverpool Amalgamated Building Trades Union, which has adopted a recommendation to this effect.

Miss Florence Underwood, secretary of the women's freedom league, probably wasn't entirely serious, however, when she definitely advanced the idea of going a step farther, suggesting that the wives attend as proxies for heir husbands, for she added:

"Husbands scould then stop at home and mind the children while wives attended the meetings."

The Liverpool union's idea struck Miss Ellen Wilkinson, labor member of the house of commons as a good one. "If the wives heard questions of policy being discussed," she remarked, "a strike would not come to them as a bolt from the blue."

PARIS

American Opera Singer Prefers French Criticism to That of American.

By Associated Press.

Paris, August 14.—"If I am to be insulted, I prefer the rapier rather than the sledge hammer," says Mary McCormick, American opera star. "That is why I like French criticism better than American," she added.

The petite Chicago singer is installed in a high apartment overlooking Boulevard Pasteur. Besides the flowers with which she fills this big salon, there are other personal touches, one an autographed photograph of Gabriel d'Annunzio, the Italian poet. D'Annunzio, in a scrawling hand, wrote: "To Mary Melody McCormick, Melodiously Gabriel d'Annunzio."

Discussing the difference between American and French audiences at opera performances, Miss McCormick said: "In Paris the audience is interested in the opera itself, while in America the star is the principal interest. In other words, in Paris people go to hear the music, regardless of the singer, while in America people are interested in the personality of the singer and careless about the opera.

Miss McCormick is under a year's contract with the Paris opera, but expects to leave for the United States in December for a concert tour, returning to Paris later.

Made Premier Feel Odd.

The sultan of Morocco received a truly regal welcome in France, and the "successor of the prophet" commander of the faithful, was delighted. One of the stories told of his visit is this:

"Facing the then premier, M. Briand across the banquet table at the Quai d'Orsay, Mulai Yussef, desirous of expressing his gratitude to the French government and its chief, said: "Mr. Premier, you are my father."

The Sultan put all his heart in this sentence, which for a Moslem is the supreme expression of gratitude.

M. Briand received the compliment with all the dignity befitting a premier of France, smiling and bowing to the sultan.

But he confided in a low voice to his table neighbor: "Fortunately there are no ladies present. He makes me feel too old."

Motor Cars Are Blessed.

All degrees of motordom, from huge polished limousines down through the ranks of the two-seaters to battered motorcycles and side cars went to church on St. Christopher's Day in France, and several ceremonies were held blessing them, with priests in full regalia. St. Christopher, as every motorist and most travelers know, is the patron saint of voyagers and his duties have been heavily increased since the advent of the motor car placed so many more under his protection.

St. Christopher Jujolet, of all the churches named for the Saint in France, is held to be the most powerful, and to this country church, six miles from the nearest railway, motor cars by the score were driven on this day that their owners might have the protection of the saint for the coming twelve months. In a long line, automobiles of all sorts passed before the statue of the saint, some decorated with flowers and others merely with dust. Each was blessed by Abbe Thuau.

Those automobilists who could not reach this special ceremony went to other St. Christophers, less famous but still credited with power to protect them.

Law Makers Want Raise.

"Deputies without fortunes" belonging to all parties have formed a group in the French Chamber, with a socialist as president and a socialist and a radical socialist as vice presidents, and a radical socialist, a republican democratic unionist and a member of the radical left as secretaries.

The group has decided to bring forward a bill, which the government will be asked to vote before the summer holidays, introducing a sliding scale for salaries of state employees and fixing the co-efficient at three as the minimum for all state salaries as compared with pre-war rates.

Deputies will be treated as state employees under this bill so that their indemnity would become 45,000 francs, (about $1200) a year, or three times the pre-war rate, instead of 27,000 francs (about $700) as at present.

MEXICO TO DENY AMERICAN CLAIMS ON TECHNICALITY

By the Associated Press.

Mexico City, Aug. 16.—El Universal says it learns the Mexican Government probably will oppose all claims presented by Americans to the special claim commission for damages sustained during the period when Victoriano Huerta was in control of Mexico.

The newspaper says the Mexican government will contend that it is not liable for the payment of such damages because Huerta never really controlled all the territory in Mexico and was not the head of the Mexican government.

R. V. Stout of Dallas was a visitor here Saturday.

BERLIN

Berlin Married Folk Have Substitute for Cross-Word Puzzle.

By Associated Press.

Berlin, August 14.—Berlin's dog days find married couples indulging in a new fangled substitute for the cross-word puzzle. This is probing into the mysteries of the figures 3842.

Some one discovered that these figures invariably come from adding the following: The year of ones birth, ones age, the year of marriage and the number of years married.

The puzzle, which is bewildering to most people, rests on the obvious fact that 3852 equals twice 1926, and that the year of birth, plus present age always equals 1926, as does also the year of marriage plus the number of years of the duration of the marriage.

Nurmi in the Movies.

Runners soon will be able to study closely the training and running methods of Paavo Nurmi, "the Flying Finn."

During the champion runner's recent exhibition races in Berlin, a filmcompany induced him to pose for a one-act reel. This is soon to be exhibited. Nurmi, who is of a varying disposition, at first was unwilling to be shot, but finally he yielded when he was convinced that he would render a service to other devotes of the cinder path.

Slow motion, with which the film abounds, will enable aspiring athletes to study the champions' every motion and observe the beauty and exactness of his stride.

Former Royalty Dying Fast.

Almost 25 per cent of the heads of former royal houses have died since federal and provinical governments in 1918 were drawn into negotiations to indemnify them for property confiscated during the revolution.

The monarchist slogan, "settle with former princes and kings before they die" has a basis in fact, although all the rulers who have died left heirs who are continuing the fight in the half dozen states and principalities which have not settled after eight years.

The delay, now prolonged until the Reichstag meets again in November, is costing the government millions of dollars annually in pensions and rents on property held. The former Kaiser alone draws a stipend of $144,000 a year. A few of the ex-rulers are land poor. Prince Johann Georg of Saxony, brother of the former king Friederich August, has been forced by circumstances to sell his Dresden palace and estate to the city for $1,200,000. But most of them are holding for indemnities and it is believed they stand a good chance of getting about half the three billion marks which they demand.

Wants Chance Start Anew.

A free man after spending 22 of the forty years of his life in jail for burglary, Paul Mueller is attempting to realize the dream that came to him behind the bars. He wants to cross the Atlantic to Brazil in a forty foot sail boat and start life anew as a farmer. A subscription fund started by a Berlin newspaper has netted him 1 000 marks so far.

"All I want is enough to buy a boat, provisions and navigation instruments," Mueller says. "I can't get a job in Germany. Every employer wants recommendations. I can show only jail releases. My last sentence was 13 years. Even if I got a job the government expects me to pay back 37 cents a day for my keep in jail or about $1,750. I can't do that."

Anti Masher Device.

An anti-mashers device which looks like a wrist watch and can knock out an assailant by means of a low amperage electric shock of 1,000 volts, is being recommended to girls by a number of policemen.

The contrivance, invented by Emil Pruess of Gelsznkirchen, is worn on the wrist. Thin wires connect it with a tiny battery and induction coil carried in an inside pocket of a dress or the coat pocket of a man. When needed, the wearer presses a button, swings at the bad man so as to touch his body and the fight is over.

Five Cent Cigar Returns.

The five cent cigar came back in Germany long ago, but smokers say it doesn't mean anything. Jokes about the five centers being filled with cast off automobile tire rubber have caused the Federal and State governments to take notice. An institute for tobacco research has been organized to promote growing of tobacco at home because the high tariff practically excludes high grade weeds from the market.

MOODY WILL SPEAK GREENVILLE TONIGHT OPENING CAMPAIGN

By Associated Press.

Austin, Texas, Aug. 16.—Attorney General Dan Moody, who led Governor Miriam A. Ferguson in the first Democratic primary election by a large plurality, Monday left for Greenville where he speaks tonight.

He plans an intensive campaign for the next two weeks, the date of the second primary being August 28.

U. S. AMBASSADOR RETURNING HOME TO VISIT SUPERIORS

By Associated Press

Washington, Aug. 13.—The United States Government's first official contact with the religious controversy in Mexico came today in the form of a conference between Secretary of State Kellogg and J. J. Flaherty, Supreme Knight of the Knights of Columbus.

Conditions in the Southern Republic, the oil land dispute, the religious crisis and the latest imprisonment of an American citizen without hearing on an unspecified charge, occupied the attention of the Secretary as he prepared to leave tomorrow for White Pine Camp to discuss foreign relations with President Coolidge.

Flaherty bore to the department for the consideration of the Secretary, a resolution adopted at the recent Philadelphia convention of the Knights of Columbus, asking that the United States intervene to protect Catholic churchmen in their argument with President Calles.

Sharing interest with his visit was the report of Ambassador Sheffield that he had interceded with the Mexican foreign office on behalf of J. H. Grande, Los Angeles fruit dealer, who had been held incommunicado since his arrest a week ago.

The ambassador called to the attention of the Mexican authorities that this was a violation of the Mexican constitution.

The Secretary received Mr. Flaherty at the instance of the President, who had referred the petition for government intervention to the State Department. To supplement any report he may make to the President on the Knight's appeal Mr. Kellogg will have the nature and substance of the hundreds of other communications he has received on the subject since the religious crisis developed.

In addition to the Mexican situation Secretary Kellogg probably will take up with President Coolidge the reports made by the returning American delegates to the preliminary arms conference at Geneva.

Secretary Kellogg plans to remain at White Pine Camp until next week when he is to make an address at Plattsburg, N. Y. He is expected to return to the Camp Thursday for further discussions before he returns to Washington to meet Ambassador Sheffield who will reach the capital on a vacation.

It was recalled here that on the eve of Mr. Sheffield's return to Mexico from his last previous trip home, Mr. Kellogg issued a statement asserting that the Calles Government was on trial before the world. This, prepared after White House conferences in which both the Secretary and the Ambassador participated, had somewhat the effect of a diplomatic bombshell in both countries.

Among the many communications reaching the State Department as a result of the religious controversy in Mexico is a protest from Archbishop Hanna of San Francisco and the Rev. John J. Burke of Washington, officials of the National Catholic Welfare Conference against the publicity methods adopted by the Mexican government in the United States.

The latter declares that the Mexican consul general in New York and others have carried on an organized propaganda campaign based on false statements and designed to mislead the American people.

Department officials declined today to comment on the protest or indicate whether they would reply.

Sheffield Returning Home.

By Asosciated Press.

Mexico City, Aug. 13.—James R. Sheffield, the American Ambassador, will leave tonight for Vera Cruze, whence he will sail Saturday for New York on a two months vacation.

The Ambassador today continued to maintain silence concerning the latest note of the United States to Mexico and other aspects of the relations between the two countries. He emphasized that his present trip is for the purpose of taking a vacation, but added that naturally he would see Secretary Kellogg and President Coolidge.

Mr. Sheffield yesterday paid a visit to the Foreign Office and bade the officials farewell. He is to call at Chapultepec also today to say good bye to President Calles.

The expectation was this morning that during the day the United States embassy would make further representations to the Mexican foreign office concerning the refusal of the warders of the jail to permit a representative of the American consulate to see and talk to J. H. Grande, of Los Angeles. Mr. Grande is being detained incommunicadi on a technical charge of fraud in connection with banana sales.

Yesterday evening Vice Consul Lewis went to the jail to see Mr. Grande but was refused admission, although the foreign office had informed the ambassador that it had been arranged for an American representative to visit Mr. Grande.

The Department of War today denied the assertion of Archbishop Leopoldo Ruiz Y Flores of the state of Michoacan that two priests had been executed by Mexican Federal forces in the town of Zahuayo, Michoacan, in connection with the religious controversy.

The statement said there had been no executions of priests anywhere in Mexico. It also minimized reports of clashes between Catholics and soldiers in the states of Michoacan and Guanajuato.

The Government's committee of financial experts has begun to study the economic situation and the instability of exchange.

The economic boycott called in protest against the government's religious regulations does not appear to have become more serious as far as Mexico City is concerned, but it continues nevertheless to cause considerable depression in business circles.

The Catholic Episcopate in a reply to the recent report of the party of American "Good Willers" headed by Alva W. Taylor of the Church of Disciples Social Service Commission, regarding its findings after investigating the religious situation in Mexico, declared it to be "mortifying to Americans residing in Mexico, that American intellectuals come here, disfigure truth and mislead the opinion of the American press and people."

RICHARD REESE WHITTEMORE YOUTHFUL LEADER OF BANDIT GANG, HANGED EARLY TODAY

By Associated Press.

Baltimore, Md., Aug. 13.—Richard Reese Whittemore, leader of a bandit gang that set itself a goal of a billion dollars in loot, died on the gallows shortly after midnight this morning in the penitentiary where he slew a guard in escaping a year and a half ago.

The end came quickly for the youthful criminal who led his followers to robbery of nearly $1,000,000 of the fabulous sum they sought. At midnight he said, "I wish to say good-bye—the best I could wish anybody." At 12.08 eastern standard time, his body plunged through the gallows trap of the Maryland penitentiary. At 12:22, fourteen minutes later, he was pronounced dead.

Less than 20 minutes had elapsed after he stepped onto the scaffold platform at 12:06 when his body, in its casket was wheeled out of the death chamber. It was claimed by relatives for funeral services at the home of his father, Rawlings V. Whittemore.

The elder Whittemore and Mrs. Margaret Whittemore, the slayer's wife, bade him farewell several hours before the execution, separated from him by a heavy fine-meshed screen where he sat in the death cell.

Mrs. Whittemore was weeping hysterically as she left the prison for the last time, but Whittemore appeared unshaken and remained so to the end.

The youthful gangster, after shaking hands with prison officials in the death cell corridor, dropped his last cigarette from his lips and walked steadily through the small door leading to the execution platform eighteen feet above the floor of the oblong death chamber. A faint smile which was on his face left it when he stood erect over the trap and made his brief statement in a clear voice. The black hood was drawn over his head and his shrouded figure had dropped through the platform just two minutes after he had appeared in the narrow doorway above the heads of the witnesses.

Whittemore, serving a fifteen year sentence for burglary, fatally beat Robert H. Holtman, sixty-year-old guard with an iron bar on February 20, 1925, and walked out of the hospital gate of the penitentiary. He was hanged within a few yards of the spot where the guard was struck down.

By Associated Press.

Baltimore, Aug. 13.—Although at outs with the law from the age of short trousers, Richard Reese Whittemore's criminal career left him cast in a petty role until, at the age of 25 and with a noose dangling above his head, he crowded into the space of a few months most of the high lights of a fiction bandit's life.

He was a comparatively little known gunman, with a prison reputation for being "hard," when, serving a term for burglary, he walked out of Maryland penitentiary on February 20, 1925, with the keys of a mortally wounded guard. Thirteen months later, when a New York police night patrol picked him up as a suspicious character after a chase at guns' points from the door of a night club, he was the active head of one of the East's most successful criminal organizations of recent years.

Whittemore went to the gallows for slaying the guard—Robert H. Holtman—the first important act for his brief, spectacular career. Holtman, his skull crushed by an iron bar, died two days after Whittemore escaped. Whether Whittemore actually was guilty of other murders laid by police at his door or that of his gang, may never be known.

Baltimore, New York, Chicago, Cleveland and Buffalo were included in the Whittemore' gang's scope of operations. Many lucrative hauls were made from New York jewelry establishments. The "million dollar crime trust," so dubbed later by police because of the fabulous goal set, and reported nearly reached when the crime organization was shattered, revealed itself as an almost entirely self-supporting criminal unit when police dug into its secrets. It had its own private "fences.. for receiving stolen goods and maintained its own channels of disposal, realizing a much higher profit on its loot than is usually the case. The profits were apportioned among the gang members, the apportionment being made by Whittemore, who personally superintended its operations. So successful had the gang's system been, that police at first declined to make public the details of a confession of Anthony Paladino, one of Whittemore's henchmen, on the grounds that it set a dangerous example.

The gang's break-up was rapid after Whittemore and two companions visited the Chantee night club in the early morning of March 19, last. He was trailed from the door by a roving patrol, forced from his automobile several blocks away, and taken to headquarters, where his identity was established. The remainder of the gang were rounded up one by one, largely through a police watch on Mrs. Margaret Whittemore, the bandit chief's wife, who was living with him in a down town hotel.

Paladino "tipped off" the system in his confession, and incriminated, besides Whittemore, Leon and Jacob Kraemer, brothers, Milton ("Shuffles") Goldberg and "Baltimore Willie" Unkelbach as the chief members of the gang. Unkelbach, the last to be arrested, was in Baltimore while search for him was being made in Cleveland, and might have escaped had he not driven his automobile from Baltimore to New York to retrieve personal belongings. All the male gangsters received prison terms in New York.

Mrs. Whittemore also was arrested in New York, but her bandit husband effected her release, on an agreement with District Attorney Banton, by admitting his part in thefts totaling hundreds of thousands of dollars. Whittemore, however, refused to incriminate any member of the gang. After her release, Mrs. Whittemore dedicated herself to an attempt to save her husband's life.

She appeared in Buffalo and sat silent in the court room as a jury was discharged after failing to agree on Whittemore's guilt in connection with the slaying of a bank messenger in a $93,000 daylight holdup there. She followed him back to Baltimore when New York state, itself having robbery indictments against the gang leader whose penalties would total 200 years, released him to Maryland, where States Attorney H. R. O'Conor, whose youthfulness matched that of the prisoner, promised a "perfect hanging case."

Whittemore was found guilty of first degree murder on May 21. Later both the Supreme bench of Baltimore and the Maryland Court of Appeals had denied Whittemore a new trial. Governor Richie of Maryland reviewed the case. Edgar Allen Poe, Whittemore's counsel, contended the evidence justified nothing more severe than a verdict of second degree murder. Whittemore's defense was that he struck the guard down in self-defense during an altercation, and not for the purpose of escape. Governor Ritchie declined to interfere.

The slayings of "Chicago Tommy" Langrella, an underworld character of Chicago and Baltimore, who was found shot to death in North Arlington, N. J., last February, and of Simon L. Gilden, of Baltimore, believed a former member of the Whittemore gang, in New York last December, were attributed by police to Whittemore or his followers. Neither of the crimes, however, was ever fastened directly on the gang. Whittemore admitted shooting Edward "Spike" Kenney, at a Middle River road-house on the outskirts of Baltimore, last Hallowe'en night. Kenney recovered in a hospital with a police guard around the building.

Whittemore pleaded poverty when arraigned in Baltimore. What became of his reputed fortune in loot was never developed. Edgar Allen Poe, who was appointed by the court to defend him, was a former state's attorney of Baltimore, former attorney general of Baltimore and former president of the Baltimore bar association.
